

THE METAL RAT

24th January 2020

Creative inventive flexible.

A survivor is what this tiny creature represents.

Not everyone born in the year of the rat can resonate with their year, as it can carry disease and lives in hidden dark places. All true, but its ability to overcome adversity and defend its community and family is fierce and committed.

This year we will need the mettle of both the element and the Rat. Dig deep to mine your creative energy to utilise resources untapped. Use the metal element to cut away anything toxic and hindering you from your development and reason for being.

The beginning of a new decade heralds a new Era, as a vibrant young generation imprint their hopes and vocalises their impatience on a generation who took the bounty of the planet as theirs...

The rat does not waste its time pondering his next move, but strategises, calculates then implements it's plan. They also work within a team.

So the message is to be creative, inventive and flexible to get the maximum for this year. I wish all who come across this blog a fruitful venturing and safe passage for the year.
